NEW-YORK'S NEW CEMETERY

HISTORIC GROUNDS ON THE HUDSON BOUGHT FOR THE CITY'S DEAD.

THE METROPOLIS.

A $1,000,000 real estate transaction, just completed gives to a syndicate a large tract of land a shor into a cemetery for this city. The purchase was investment, and includes the old Rockland Cem looking the Hudson River. Although the names of public, it is understood that the men connecte who have watched the attempts being made to remove Trinity and St. Paul's cemeteries, in low-Broadway, and other cemeteries within the city limits, and who have begun this enterprise in the belief that the salution of the burying-ground prob lem for the Greater New-York lies in the choice o places convenient to the great city, but sufficiently ANDROS B. Aside from the 200 acres included in the origina purchase, it is expected that within a short time adjoining plots will be bought, making Rockland Sparkill and Piermont, on the west side of the Hudson, about twenty miles from this city. Four broad plateaus rise by gentle slopes to the summit, 700 above the Hudson. Each plateau has its hills and dales and its woodlands. The cemetery, as a whole, was a camping ground in the Revolutionary War, and as a battle-ground it is historic. Several River. A BEAUTIFUL OUTLOOK.

From the summit of the highest plateau can be plainly seen the land of seven States, New-York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Vermont and New-Hampshire. Miles of the winding Hudson can be seen northward, end-ing in the hazy outlines of the Catskills and Highbe plainly seen, only a short distance away, the André was tried and condemned, and a short dis-

André was tried and condemned, and a short distance away the clump of trees which mark the place where he was executed. In the old Rockland Cemetery, which was founded many years ago by Eleazer Lord, the former president of the Erie Railroad, much money has been expended in improvements. The new syndicate, however, will immediately begin improvements on a larger scale, in landscape gardening, and the cost of these changes will probably exceed the purchase price of the tract of land. Three thousand burials have already been made in the old cemetery. In the receiving vault lies the body of General John C. Fremont. A handsome mausoleum will be built to his memory as soon as sufficient funds can be raised. Among the other prominent persons buried there are Commander Gorringe, H. C. Seymour, Henry Shipman, Thomas Lippencott and Jerome B. Stillson. In case the cemeteries now within the limits of this city are ordered removed, it is probable the bodies will be removed to Rockland Cemetery, where the old cemeteries will be reproduced in detail.

NATHAN STRAUS'S GOOD WORK

A TENT TO SHELTER WOMEN AND CHIL DREN

The milk is in bottles, with a hippic strached to each bottle, so that the child is bound to get it pure. The bottles are rounded at the bottom, so that when the parent lays it aside she will have to cork it, and thus keep it pure. This branch of work," continued Mr. Straus, "I regard as of more use than any of the other forms of relief with which my name is connected. You can trace good results more directly in this than you can in other cases." "Have you made any provision for mothers and children to set pure air as well as pure milk?"

"I am glad you asked me that," Mr. Straus answered, "and now, through the columns of The Tribune, I beg to extend an invitation to mothers to bring their little ones, and to day nurses and matrons of children's asylums to bring their charges to a tent which I have set up for that very purpose. Through the couriesy of the bock Hoard, I have erected on the pler at East Tairdeat, in conjunction with the milk depot, a tent to shelter women and children from the sum. There are benches under the canvas where women are at liberty to bring their children and sit during the day. Tals will enable women who have not me time to go on excursions to obtain benefits of the sea air for themselves and children. The tent will be open every day, and good order will be preserved."

The milk depots are at the foot of East Third-st., No. 317 East Ninth-st., No. 147 Eldrage-st., No. 22 Market-st., No. 20 West Sixty-third-st., and No. 324 East Fifty-ninth-st.

MGR. SATOLLI ON CHURCH AND STATE. THE APOSTOLIC DELEGATE SHOWS HIS INTEREST

IN THE WORK OF THE CATHOLIC

SUMMER SCHOOL.

On his recent visit to New-York, Monsignor Satolli, the Apostolic Delegate, honored the Rev. Joseph H. McMahon, director of the League of the Sacred Heart in the Cathedral of New-York, and chairman of the Executive Committee of the Catholic Summer School of America, with an interview in the private apartments occupied by Monsignor Satolli as the guest of Archbishop Corrigan. Monsignor Satolli inquired about the League of the Sacred Heart, and was much pleased to learn that the League in the Cathedral Centre numbered more than 25,000 associates. Father McMahon mentioned the work of the Catholic Summer School. The Apostolic Delegate had heard of that institution and expressed a wish to learn fully its objects and methods, and listened attentively to the explanation offered by Father McMahon, who described in detail the history, the Monsignor Satolli encouraged him and blessed the work, and said: "From the experience that I have gathered in America, I do believe that it is the country of all others in which Catholic truth may have the largest field of action. We only need freedom of speech, and this is most ample in America. But the exposition of truth must be plain and clear. I regret that sometimes the truth has been set forth incompletely. Truth possesses in itself the power to reach the intellect; it needs only to be presented clearly and entirely. It will then be accepted, not only by Catholics, but also by Protestants and infidels. I mean by those who are outside the pale of the Church by reason of their honest convictions, not on account of systematic opposition, prejudice or bigotry. Those who are influenced by these latter motives are many centuries behind modern progress. And I would be very much pleased to see the Catholic Summer School incorporate with its objects another point of very great importance; namely, the presentation to the American people of the precise idea of the relations by which is established the harmony between the Church and the State, so much to be desired and so fruifful in good. In this matter I find a great want of knowledge in America. I am speaking about what is commonly called Public Ecclesiastical Law, which precisely deals with the foundation, or better, the essential constitution of the action of both freedom of speech, and this is most ample in Amer

THE STATEMENT MAY NOT BE READY

A BELIEF THAT BOTH E. B. BARTLETT & CO.

AND THE UNION WAREHOUSE COMPANY ARE SOLVENT. The affairs of E. B. Bartlett & Co. and the Unio Warehouse Company are so interwoven that it is barely possible that a statement may not be ready for the meeting of creditors of both concerns to morrow, but the assignes and receiver, W. W.

by that time. He filed a bond of $50,000 of the Law yers' Surety Company in the receivership of the Union Warehouse Company, and was away from his office, at No. 59 Wall-st, most of the day, looking into the affairs of the two concerns. Creditors, it is said, have expressed a friendly feeling and believe that the condition of each concern will show that neither the firm nor the company is insolvent The creditors, it is said, are mostly banks, bankers and those who lend money on commercial paper, as the bulk of the liabilities of both concerns is on Mr. Deady, the partner of Mr. Goodrich, said yesterday that the notices for the meeting of creditors on Monday had been sent to the creditors, and it on Monday had been sent to the creditors, and it was hoped that a statement could be completed in time to present to the creditors then. He thought that the statement would make a good showing of both the Union Warehouse Company and E. B. Bartlett & Co. It was his opinion that both concerns are solvent and that the business of each would be continued under some arrangement with the creditors. Those holding warehouse receipts for their loans on this collateral were amply secured. He could not say just how much the liabilities of E. B. Bartlett & Co. are, or the amount of the assets. The latter include the leases of the warehouses in Brooklyn, claims for storage due, and for loans made by the firm on warehouse receipts. Regarding the individual essate of Mr. Bartlett, he said that no one knew how much it is, but the estate, of course, was liable for the firm debts. The Union Warehouse Company, in his opinion, conducted the largest business of this kind in the world. The assignment of the firm and the appointment of a receiver for the company were more on the defensive than otherwise, as the company, being a foreign corporation, was liable to attachment.

PREPARING FOR HEAVY SUMMER TRAVEL. Notwithstanding the backward season, summer resort travel seems determined to take an early start. SOME OF THE PLANS FOR THE SAENGERFEST. The Saengerfest, which has already been au-nounced, will begin at the Madison Square Garden on Saturday, June 23, and continue on Sunday and Monday, afternoon and evening. The musical directors, Messrs. Van der Stucken, Zellner and Hein, have been rehearsing several thousand singers, and when the societies come together in this city for the great rehearsal preparatory to the opening performance, an intelligent knowledge of what they are to do will have been acquired. The second concert, on Sunday afternoon, will be largely devoted to prize singing. The prizes will include sold and silver cups, wreaths of sterling sliver, a bronze of Beethoven and three concergrand planos. The third concert, which will be of a popular nature, will occur on Sunday evening. The fourth will also be devoted to prize singing. Several popular solotsis have been engaged for these concerts. Among the most prominent are Mine. Amalia Materna. Miss Emma Juch, Miss Lillian Blauvelt, Mme. Tavary, Miss Maud Powell, Signor Campanari, Emil Fischer, Conral Behrens, Arthur Friedhelm and Victor Herbert. There will be a torchlight procession of 20,000 men on Friday evening, June 2. The line of march, which will be led by General Franz Sigel, will be from Secondst, and Second-ave, up Second-ave, to Fourteenthst, to Union Square, up Fourth-ave, to Madison Square Garden, up Madison-ave, to Central Park. One of the features of the procession will be a float representing an apotheosis of music and song. In a gorgeously constructed temple will appear Apollo playing a lyre. In front of this Lohengrin will be visible in a great pink shell, drawn by swans on the water. The Goddess of Liberty and Germania will be on the right and left of the float. grand pianos. Several changes have been made in the choir of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Agnes, Forty third-st., near Lexington-ave., whose rector, the Rev. Dr. Henry A. Brann, is regarded as one of the most eloquent of the city's Catholic clergymen. The Misses, Overy and Benedict, sopranos, and W. A. Esica, organist, have retired, and Signor De Pasquale, Italian tenor, and Mr. Gratzier, have joined the choir. The vocal and instrumental music at this church has always been attractive.
